

Plant Ecology and Evolution Lab

Check This out

Plant Ecology and Evolution Lab

Biological communities are formed from a complex web of interactions among multiple species. However, in spite of the importance of these interactions in the origin, maintenance and evolution of biodiversity, our understanding of the ecological and evolutionary outcomes of multiple-species interactions is still developing.

Our lab is broadly interested in the ecology and evolution of species interactions, with special focus on pollination biology, seed dispersal and biological invasions.

<http://webs.uvigo.es/plantecology/divulgacion.en.html>